

[Introduction Message by Bishop Philip Lim, President NCCS]

NDTS 2025. This year's National Day Thanksgiving Service (NDTS) will be held on Thursday 14 August at 7.45 pm in the Cathedral New Sanctuary, St Andrew's Cathedral. We invite you to come celebrate SG60 with a time of worship, prayer and thanksgiving. Hope Church's dynamic music team will be leading the congregation in uplifting praise and the choirs of Anglo-Chinese Junior College alumni and the Emmanuel Tamil Annual Conference (of the Methodist Church) will bless us with stirring musical renditions.

Bishop Philip Lim of the Methodist Church in Singapore, President of the National Council of Churches of Singapore (NCCS), will deliver the message titled "Coming to Jesus" based on Mark 2:1–12.

After the service, enjoy light refreshments and fellowship with fellow Christians. Do encourage your church members to join us with this publicity poster. PUBLICITY

SG60. Singapore turns 60 this year and we shall "strive to be bolder and kinder to one another; and play our part in building a stronger Singapore together". One way is for us to remember those among us who live with disabilities. NCCS invites you to share your ministry focus so that we can encourage and inspire one another to care for our neighbours who may have some form of disabilities. You may do so by sending photos or even a video of your special ministry programmes to those with disabilities, to admin@nccs.org.sg as we prepare to celebrate SG60.

ICCS (International Conference on Cohesive Societies) 2025. President Tharman Shanmugaratnam gave the opening keynote speech. He said that multiculturalism needs more than mere co-existence. It needs to be sustained by shared hopes, a shared purpose and a shared endeavour. To this end, a culture of respect is a source of mutual uplifting. He urged delegates to respect each other in the active weaving of multicultural societies.

Some 1,100 delegates from 50 countries came for the three-day ICCS 2025 (24 - 26 June) at the Raffles City's Convention Centre on the theme, "Cohesive Societies, Resilient Futures". The Conference aims to convey the message that cohesive and resilient multicultural societies are key to promoting harmony. The programme comprises large group plenaries, practitioner-oriented breakout and sharing sessions and skill-based workshops. A two-day Young Leaders Programme for more than 200 young leaders under the age of 35 followed the main Conference. NCCS was represented at ICCS 2025 by Assoc Gen Sec Rev Dr Chiang Ming Shun.
